SUPERVISORS

and the loss to the owner of the building was estimated to be one dollar. No other alarms were turned in. Sheriff Iaukea acknowledged receipt of the notification of the appointment of a Hawaiian interpreter of the police court and said Mr. Weed would be relieved from that duty at the end of the month.

The chair said he had noticed among the names of special officers appointed by Sheriff Iaukea the names of Messrs. Fern and Harvey, and as they had been elected Supervisors they should not hold commissions. "You have no occasion for those commissions now and I hope you will return them," said Mr. Hueston, "and I trust none of the Supervisors will accept a commission."

Mr. Harvey explained that they had held commissions under the former Sheriff for their own protection at the wharf and when the change was made the commissions were renewed.

There was something of a discussion over the matter of reports from committees. Harvey said it had been the custom of the chairman of the old board to announce what was being done, but the custom is not being followed now. He thought the chair should have each committee report at the meetings what is being done.

The chair said he would ask questions before the adjournment, and he kept his promise. Reports were made and Mr. Dwight put in a plea for more money to make repairs. The chair said the county is too hard up and handed him a lemon in lieu of the coin.

Harvey explained that he was tired of being asked on the street what the board is doing in different matters, and for that reason he felt that written reports should be made by members of the committees. Someone suggested that it would be well for the chair to go out with the road supervisor and see what is being done to the roads.

To this the chair replied that it would make no difference, as there was no money to use for the purpose of new work and very little for repairs.

There being no other business, the board adjourned until next Monday night.

present appearance as compared with when I last saw them in 1889-1890."

"I note your son has finally been nominated to the Naval Academy. Is your trip in anyway connected with his nomination?" asked the reporter.

"Yes," was the answer, "I had a cable from Kuluio this morning stating that the boy has been appointed without examination, his successful examination of two years ago when he was an alternate candidate, serving him without any further ordeal in that direction. I am not yet informed when he will be required at Annapolis, but if in the near future, he will probably accompany me across the continent for that purpose. I also propose to take my second son for treatment by eye specialists in San Francisco."

NO MORE WORD OF THE HELIOPOLIS

No information was received by the Board of Immigration from E. R. Stackable, its special agent in Europe, regarding the disaster to the steamship Heliopolis reported by cable in yesterday's Advertiser. Whether it is a case of no news being good news is perhaps too early to say. It might take Mr. Stackable the better part of a day to ascertain the condition of the steamer and how the mishap may affect her charter to carry emigrants from Malaga to Honolulu.

The steamers Ke Au Hou, Naeau and Nihau departed last evening for various island ports.

HOW THE ELKS INVADIED MAUI

Fifty-seven Elks, members of Honolulu Lodge No. 614, came ashore from the Kinau yesterday morning, tired but happy. The unanimous opinion was that they had had a good time. The Elks' outing is a thing of the past, but that does not mean that it is forgotten. In fact it may be assumed that long after the last shred of freerack paper has been dispersed by the elements from the street in front of the Maui Hotel, Walluku will retain a vivid memory of the date when it was shaken to its foundations. Its individual inhabitants will also probably jump at sudden noises for some time to come. The Elks went for a good time and had it. So did Walluku, and everyone is satisfied.

Promptly at six o'clock on Friday the Claudine left the wharf with many of the local herd aboard, all of whom were chastely attired in linen dusters and white felt hats with purple bands. They also carried bamboo canes, and each grip and suit case bore the words "Hello Bill!" in large block letters. A kidnapping committee, previously appointed, consisting of Sam Johnson, E. J. Lord and J. H. Howland succeeded in shanghaiing Clarence Waterman at the last moment. It was a very spectacular performance, Clarence being carried aboard by sheer force, protesting loudly. It may be here stated, in parenthesis, that Clarence is not a parent, but will be explained hereafter.

A large crowd had assembled at the wharf to bid good-bye to the herd, and as the Claudine departed, salutes were fired from a cannon on the bridge deck, and as the steamer passed the lighthouse there were seven blasts from the steam whistle. "Scotty" Meston, who took charge of the whistle cord intended to pull it six times, but his design was frustrated at the sixth attempt by Captain Parker ordering the steam turned off. This so disgusted "Scotty" that he crawled into a surf boat and went to sleep.

At Lahaina Clarence Waterman succeeded in eluding the kidnapping committee by crawling under a bed at the Pioneer Hotel, while the committee was sadly singing "Gee, but this is a lonesome town." He returned to Honolulu on the Iwani, which left Lahaina at 3 p. m. the following day, and posed as something of a hero on his return. "This was all very well until yesterday when the pilgrims returned from Maui when Clarence was 'handed a lemon,' as it were, and unanimously voted a quitter.

At Kahului the visitors were received by a number of Maui Elks and conveyed to shore on a barge decorated with trees bearing the legend: "Elks' Paddock." The saluting cannon came astrophically into play, the uttering of praises of Mr. Waldeyer as a Bowface. Every room was numbered 616, and a large sign announced the fact the hotel was "B. P. O. E. Headquarters." It is a conservative statement that the Maui Hotel is, at present, a trifle the worse for wear.

Saturday morning was supposed to be given over to repose and a quiet contemplation of the beauties of nature, but this was disturbed at an early hour by a serenade by the Walluku band, consisting of a bass drum and cymbals, a snare drum and a fife, played by three aged Hawaiians. The repertoire was simple, consisting of "Yankee Doodle" and "Marching Through Georgia," but these were executed with great spirit.

THE FIRST CASUALTY.

The first casualty of the day was the arrest of John Doyle for fast and furious riding. Jack is a lover of equestrianism, having learned the art of a correspondence school. His ability as a cavalier is well known in Honolulu, but is not appreciated by the constabulary of Walluku. In fact, the minions of the law were unwontedly active throughout the entire sojourn of the Elks. The officer who arrested Doyle, after being persuaded of the error of his way, released him at once and told him to go as fast as he liked. The following salvo was composed on the spot to fit the occasion: "Who is Jack Doyle?"

"First in war, first in peace, First in the hands of the Maui police!"

The second exciting affair occurred when a Hawaiian, driving a team of five mules came down the street. They were ordinary, common or garden mules, but a certain master mariner, who shall be nameless, laid a wager (with himself) that they were hurriers. Aided and abetted by a few congenial spirits, he stretched a rope across the street just at the psychological moment, bearing the sign "Tabu." The captain lost the wager, and the foremost mule about two cents' worth of hide, for which the owner demanded damages in the sum of $25. He even called on the deputy sheriff for assistance. Finally the Elk had an inspiration. "Have you a driver's license?" he demanded. The Jehu said "No."

"Well, no one is allowed, under the Federal statutes, to drive more than two mules abreast without a driver's license. If you press this charge we will have you arrested for violation of the laws of the United States government." The driver promptly faded away, the deputy sheriff disappearing in the opposite direction.

The hotel was the center of activity for many hours thereafter. "Konohi" strings of freerackers were exploded, as well as the saluting cannon. A certain well-known ex-supervisor, while engaged in a brown study, was grievously wounded in the left leg by a discharge from the latter, and for some moments the surrounding atmosphere took on a sulphurous tinge.

ON THE CARS.

At one o'clock the party boarded a special train and visited Paunaea and Paia plantations. The trip was interesting, but devoid of startling features.

The kidnapping committee again became active and removed Judge Kopekai, performer, from the bosom of his family. He made the trip under protest. The social session was held in K. of P. Hall and was well attended, the hall being crowded with Elks and their guests. Frank Thompson officiated as chairman with his usual skill and urbanity. He imposed fines with impartiality. The members of Honolulu Lodge were taxed collectively fifty cents apiece for encumbering the earth. Jack Lucas explained that Sam Johnson, E. J. Lord and Wm. Decoto had won $2 from him in a pedic game, and was promptly fined a like amount for acting as informer. Exalted Ruler Harry Murray made the opening address; C. B. Wells spoke feelingly, as did Jas. L. Coke; Hastings Howland made a decided hit with a parody on "Give My Regards to Broadway" called "Give My Regards to Maui." Hugh Howell gave a Hebrew impersonation and was donated one dollar from the general fund to have his voice cultivated. J. Walter Doyle made one of the hits of the evening as a side-show singer. At the conclusion of the stunt "Dunkle" Hartmann appeared arrayed as a Moorish beauty, who, according to the announcer, had "Little Egypt" skinned to death. Harry Couzens contributed some Limericks full of local hits, responding to an encore with "The Charge of the Light Brigade," in Scandinavian. Jack Lucas made a political speech in Hawaiian, with Guy Livingston as interpreter. The only word of Hawaiian Guy knows is "piliika," but he acquitted himself creditably, as one of the Mauiites being convinced that he was a Hawaiian scholar. The complete program was as follows:

Opening address..... Exalted Ruler H. E. Murray
Music..... J. H. Howland
What Maui Thinks of H. E. Wells
Speech..... Jas. L. Coke
Song—"Give My Regards to Maui"
Song—"The Hebrew Fancy Ball"

Slide show spiel..... J. Walter Doyle
Recitation—"Casey at the Bat"
Parody—"Grand Old Clock"
Some Limericks..... J. D. Dougherty
Selections..... Elks' Quartet
Political speech..... Jack Lucas

Hawaiian Hula..... J. H. Howland
W. Lougher and "Slats" Hellbron
Story..... G. W. R. King
Steln Song..... J. H. Howland
Story..... F. E. Thompson

The session was closed with the singing of the Eleven O'clock Toast by J. D. Dougherty and the draining of steins to "Our Absent Brothers." An adjournment was made to the hotel where another social session was held which lasted till the "wee sma" hours. Some of the "limericks" on well-known members of the order were as follows: An automobilist grew pensive, For the gasoline smell was offensive. "Why not run it with vinegar?" Exclaimed Dr. Dinegar. He replied: "The darn stuff's too expensive."

There was a young man named Wal- Who said: "Prices go higher and higher."

But at my big hotel "Things are cheaper than"—well, Just then somebody called him a liar. When in Maui you chance to arrive, Call on Wells and you surely will thrive. He will set up the best. If you come as his guest, But in business he'll skin you alive.

Captain Berger exclaimed: "Mittout failure, I will, yes, go to Maui, sure kela. I will bring down the house. Eln, zel, drel, Elnmalout!"

Hock der Kaiser! Prost! Nui-ka wela!"

SEEING THE COUNTRY.

The picnic in Iao Valley on Sunday was a grand success. To record all the events of the day would be impossible. There was "something doing" every minute. Iao Valley, by the way, was christened "I. O. U. Valley." There were numerous pedic games during the day which may account for the change. After lunch, which was served "a la fresco," Guy Livingston organized an open air minstrel show for the benefit of the band which accompanied the members of 616 from Honolulu. Guy's powers of persuasion and his ability as a comedian were taxed to the utmost, but he succeeded in collecting about $35. The involuntary plunge of a member of the local lodge into the ice-cold water of the chute. This same member, later, fearful of missing the shore boat at Kahului, plunged gracefully from the pier, fully dressed, and was hauled aboard, dripping, but triumphant. He had previously refused to "take water" during the trip, but finally decided that it was as good a tonic as anything else.

The party was accompanied to the Kahului wharf by the Maui delegation, and farewells were said with mutual regret. It was a very tired band that boarded the Kinau at ten o'clock; tired but happy, and the whole excursion was voted a grand success. Aside from its purely social features the outing was a good piece of promotion work. The programs—the "Guide to Maui," have been throughout the United States, and at least one visiting Elk, Mr. Davis, of Colorado Springs, has decided to make Honolulu his winter quarters hereafter.

Judge Weaver has granted a registered title to Libert H. Boeynaems, Bishop of Zeugma, for land in Kalihii Valley. The court "finds that the petitioner has a good title as alleged in fee simple without encumbrances by reason of open, notorious, adverse, continuous and hostile possession adverse to all the world for a period from some time in July, 1890, to date of the hearing." The lease of a portion of the premises made by W. H. Huddy to George Morris, dated April 30, 1892, for 50 years at $2 a year, is declared terminated as to the land of the petitioner. An area of 80 acres is covered by the title.

Judge Weaver has granted a registered title to J. B. Atherton Estate, Ltd., for land at Waimano, Ewa, containing an area of 36,000 square feet, being a part of the peninsula portion of Pearl City.

Harry Peters has petitioned for a registered title to land in Manoa containing 5.17 acres, assessed at $2550 including improvements.

MYRTLES AND HEALANIS TRY FOR THE WATER SUPREMACY

Saturday night at the Hotel Baths a large and select gathering of spectators watched the lads of the Myrtles and Healans contest for supremacy in the swimming field. The galleries, as well as the space around the swimming pool, were crowded and alive with the gay attire of the gentler sex, as well as with the more sober raiment of the sterner ones. Throughout the contests almost breathless interest was evinced in the various events, and storms of applause greeted the victors in each. There were no heart-breaking waits between acts, and one had hardly time to comment on one event before the next was called.

The Monte Cristo act had perhaps more human interest in it than anything else in the evening's entertainment. Geo. Crozier was the lad who, in a spirit of daring, had submitted his body for the experiment. The crowd watched two men well-known to everybody bind his limbs, they saw them weight the sack, put the boy inside, tie the sack, and then, after a breathless pause, drop it into the water. A half-minute passed, and then each second became tense with the anxiety of the spectators, and when at last George's head came above the surface of the water it was rather a warm welcome back to the land of the living that the crowd gave him than applause for his quickness and skill.

Then came the 25-yard dash, the full length of the water-tank. E. Kopke and Wallace Cooper, for the Myrtles, and L. Cunha and Kenneth Winter, for the Healans, took their places, and at the flash of the pistol four bodies leaped headlong to the water, and in another moment the crowd was on its feet, calling encouragement to their favorites, or urging on the tardy ones. The swimmers using the Australian crawl stroke could not hear the shouts, and they needed none to incite them to their utmost efforts. W. Cooper of the Myrtles took first place, and L. Cunha of the Healans second place. Time, 12-5.

In the second heat Ted Cooper of the Myrtles came first, with a time of 12-4-5 seconds to his credit. Henry O'Sullivan of the Healans was a close second. In the high and fancy diving contest George Freeth won first place, his flying dive from the trapeze, and cork-screw cut-off 45 feet up, from one of the beams, drawing exclamations of astonishment and admiration from everyone. Chas. Douglas, a Healani, was given second place.

The plunge for distance was won by a Myrtle, Ted Cooper, with 49 feet 2 inches, while the second place was obtained by another Myrtle, H. Chadwick, with 47 feet 11 inches.

Wallace Cooper, Myrtle, came in first in the 50-yard dash, but Geo. Cunha, Healani, who came second, ran him very close, and might have won had it not been that he had been penalized one second for starting too soon. The time was 28-1-5 seconds.

The second heat went to Ted Cooper, with E. Kopke second. The time was the same, 28-1-5 seconds.

The backward race for 50 yards was won by Geo. Harris, Winter, and Crozier will swim off for second place next Saturday night. Time, 44-1-5 seconds.

The quarter-mile race for the championship of Hawaii went to E. Kopke, David Center dropping out after going half the distance. Kopke finished in 7 minutes 17-4-5 seconds, 24 seconds longer than the world's record.

The evening's entertainment was concluded by a water polo match between Oahu College and the Diamond Heads. The former won 6-1 after two well-contested six-minute halves that kept the spectators fairly in their seats with excitement. This was the first water polo match ever played in Honolulu, and it is safe to say that it will not be the last. The public will have a say as to that.

Announcer Harry Tomlins concluded his official duties for the first night by stating that the score now stands 36 to 17 in favor of the Myrtles, but that the Healans might easily put the score on their side of the sheet on the second night of the meet.

Mr. W. H. Babbitt performed the duties of official starter, and, of course, everything went swimmingly. The same officials will look after the second night of the meet on Saturday night.

RENEAR WINS MORE LAURELS

Dan Renear, who won the championship of the Islands for the 50-yard swim in 1905, and who has been winning laurels for himself and Hawaii in swimming athletics ever since, has again drawn to the front as a member of the Pennsylvania swimming team. The Philadelphia Inquirer has the following to say: "The Pennsylvania team journeyed to Baltimore January 26th where they won a notable victory over the Baltimore Athletic Club in a dual meet by a score of 52 to 15, and during the evening the Quaker swimmers lowered two of the records for the tank they competed in.

In the relay race, the four red and blue competitors, Renear, E. Hopkins Jr., Zieber and Sylvester, broke the previous record that was made by the Pennsylvania team last year by 3-4-5 seconds, and in the 100 yard swim Dan Renear carried off first place in the good time of 1:02-4-5, the second tank record the local collegians carried off.

According to results Pennsylvania won about everything. De Bow took the plunge for distance, covering thirty feet in the remarkable time of thirty-seven seconds; Renear next won the 20-yard swim in 9-1-5 seconds; Nelson of the B. A. C. carried off the 40, with Philler and Rogers of Pennsylvania close second and third. De Bow won the bobbing for corks contest with twenty of them secured in three minute time allowance; Renear followed vania close second and third. De Bow secured another victory in the 40-yard lighted candle race; Hopkinson won the 200 yards semi-wind-up, and Renear carried the crowd by storm in a magnificent fancy diving exhibition, which closed the evening."

CRICKET SEASON BEGINS APRIL 6

The Hawaiian Cricket Club held its annual meeting Wednesday night and elected the following officers: President, D. L. Jordan; first vice president, D. L. Withington; second vice president, R. Anderson; secretary, B. F. Beardmore; treasurer, C. E. Edmunds; executive committees, T. Gill, J. H. Fiddes, James MacConnell, captain, J. R. McLean; vice captain, C. P. Moore.

It was decided to open the cricket season for this year on April 6. There are many new members in the club and things have improved financially to such an extent that the club is now free of debt and has money on hand.

SEEN FROM HILLO.

The fire in the crater at Halemauau was so great last week that the glow was plainly visible from Hilo. From the bridge across the Walluku river the red reflection in the heavens is visible only when the activity is great. That was the condition last week when the Gay party, that went up by special steamer, arrived there, and the bridge is crowded with visitors nightly.

WATER POLO AT THE CARNIVAL

Much interest is being taken in the water polo match between the Diamond Heads and Oahu College at the Hotel Baths tonight. The college boys will have a bunch of rosters behind them, and the contestants will need the water to keep cool. The lineup for the polo match is as follows:

Oahu College—Hittcock, center; forward; Cooper, center; Townsend, Withington and Hind, goals. Diamond Heads—Lyle and Robertson, forwards; Freeth, center; Smidt, O'Sullivan and Auld, goals.

The complete program for tonight is as follows: 1.—Monte Cristo act. 2.—25-yard dash (first heat). 3.—25-yard dash (second heat). 4.—Competition diving (fancy). 5.—Plunge for distance. 6.—50-yard dash (first heat). 7.—50-yard dash (second heat). 8.—Race on back. 9.—440-yard race. 10.—Polo match, Oahu College vs. D. H. A. C.

The meet starts promptly at 8:30. Tickets are on sale at the Hotel Baths.

GRANDSTAND TO SEAT 367,000

The athletic grandstand that will be erected in England for the Olympic games next year will seat 367,000 people. At Athens the Stadium seated 90,000. The English stand will be the greatest building of the kind ever erected. It will seat four times as many as the ancient Coliseum at Rome. At the English Derby, the greatest sporting event of the world, they sometimes have 200,000 spectators but only a few of these are seated. At least half the number are scattered over the hills within the race track and for a mile up and down the course. This gigantic preparation for the Olympic games of 1908 shows how amateur athletic sports have grown in popularity during the past few years.

Mrs. Michael Hart, wife of the super intendent of Cart Service at Kingston, Jamaica, West Indies, says that she has for some years used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs, croup and whooping cough and has found it very beneficial. She has implicit confidence in it and would not be without a bottle of it in her home. Sold by Benson, Smith & Co., agents for Hawaii.
